

Camp

A Course in People 101

I didn't want to apply for the Cooperative Youth Leadership Camp. I wanted the leadership experience, but I didn't want to go to an electricity leadership camp. I didn't know anything about electricity, and I was worried that is all we would talk about at camp. I thought I would either feel bored or stupid. Guess what? We did talk about electricity—and I didn't feel bored or stupid. Camp was a crash course in People 101. Never in my life have I learned so much about individuals, myself, or people in general than I did in my week at Steamboat Springs.
